

Magnetic field stimulates the synthesis of collagen

Collagen is the main protein of connective tissue. It is located in the tendons and in the skin, where is responsible for elasticity and its high tensile strength. Due to its function in the body, it is obvious to apply the magnetic field in the treatment of dislocations, sprains and tendon rupture.

